The Pittsburgh Commercial.

VOL. V. PITTSBURGH, SATURDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 5, 1868. NO. 306.

DAILY COMMERCIAL.

...

The Daily Commercial.

LOCAL NOTICES.

...

NEWS SUMMARY.

BY TELEGRAPH

...

FIRST EDITION.

12 O'CLOCK, M.

WASHINGTON.

Colored Members of Georgia Legislature Expelled.

NO SESSION IN SEPTEMBER.

Conservatives Getting Hard Up.

Buckley's Latest Developments.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

WASHINGTON, September 4, 1868.

Expulsion of Colored Legislators.

The expulsion of colored members of the Georgia House of Representatives was thus accomplished. The House consists of one hundred and forty members, seventy-four being Republicans and of the latter twenty-three colored and not allowed to vote, leaving forty-eight white Republicans, all the rest being Democrats. The colored members were ordered out

The Daily Commercial.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1868.

SUBSCRIBED SUBSCRIPTIONS.

National Union.

State Union.

County Union.

City Union.

A mass meeting of Republicans will be held in Uniontown, Fayette county, on Tuesday evening next. Addresses will be delivered by Hon. Thomas J. Rusling and H. C. Wanmaker, Esq., of this city. We are assured our friends in Fayette may be satisfactorily entertained on this occasion.

The Committee having in charge the mass meeting at Old Fort on Monday evening have addressed to Hon. John Covode, of Ohio, an inviting the latter arrangements and a cordial demonstration is expected. He will not be sufficiently large to accommodate the thousands who will flock to hear the able advocate of Republican principles.

It is reported that it cannot, Senator B. Gratz Brown, of Missouri, Democratic candidate for Vice President, will visit Pittsburgh. The Democratic party is evidently afraid to trust him before the people of this city, and we do not wonder at it. Brown is a demagogue of the most dangerous stamp, and his visit here would be the signal for a storm of indignation that would overwhelm him and his party.

This is the light in which the voters of Vermont regard the issue, as the contest, the Herald nearly concludes Republicanism that of the country in November.

There is a certain class of Democrats who have regarded the nomination of Blair as presenting more importance to them than that of Seymour, and it is quite apparent that great expectations are indulged concerning him. Especially is this the case in the South, a quarter of the Union which, as our peculiar history shows, has derived great benefits from the action both of Republicans and Democrats. Many of the present rebel Vice Presidents to the Presidency are either of the "young men," and "Young Ohio," "Young Indiana," "Young Illinois," "Young Pennsylvania," "Young Kentucky," "Young Missouri," and "Young Virginia," under different titles are all the rage. We are assured that in the state Democratic centers seldom mention the name of Seymour, but Blair's name is often employed by the Southern leaders. These South-ern people evidently act as though Blair was going to be President, in case Seymour is not elected, and perhaps they could give a good reason why they think so.

THE PITTSBURGH DAILY PRESS'S CAREER OF BOLDNESS AND FOLLY.

We have the Pittsburgh Daily Press the second successively indorsing General Grant for the Presidency, expressing the highest admiration of his character both as a General and a civilian, and advising the people with due regard to party to support him. A piece of advice, according to present appearances, the people are going to accept.

Turning to another part of the record, we find the Post equally mortified at declaring the unsoundness of Horatio Seymour, the Democratic candidate. In the issue of that paper of March 14th, we find Mr. Seymour elaborately criticised for his speech a few days before on that occasion, he is understood, Mr. Seymour has made on the financial question. The views of the Democratic candidate then being the same now, of course the criticism and dissent of the Post will elicit, without qualification or modification. The article of the Post now under consideration was on "a telegraph synopsis" of Mr. Seymour's speech, and we quote from our contemporary as follows:

In the issue of the Post of March 17th the subject is continued, the text of the article of that date being a quotation from the Herald, saying that "Governor Seymour's actions seem pre-ner me to the title question whether the public debt is payable in greenbacks." To this our contemporary responds as follows:

In the issue of the Post of March 18th we find the first reference to the resolutions of the party in this county in March last and an elaborate partisan panegyric on Governor Seymour, formally assumed on the financial question, stigmatizing him as the candidate of the bondholders, the creditor of "the bankocracy of the East, and more New York than any place else." We give the Post credit for opposing Seymour then on principle. Mr. Seymour having made no other speech and in no manner qualified his utterances, support of him now seems hardly sensible. The Post is given to consistency. We put these things calmly to the Democratic organ, out of respect for its feelings, under the supposition doubtless in which it has become involved.

If not to suit the Post warmly commend his financial views to the support of Democratic voters, and preferring his election by a vote so nearly unanimous as ever a President was chosen. Now we find a pronouncing Democratic newspaper in Democratic, as last, the greatest need of his life," candidate of the straightforward Democracy, for election, and advocate of the principles of the Democratic platform of New York. No doubt the Post believes what we just as it believes Mr. Seymour's speech, we all know, we refer to the history of the Democratic candidate personally foreigners, or to the Democratic platform of New York. This was in March last. Now we find the Post in the following terms of the Herald. Mr. Seymour is not of the same mind. The Post says:

Here we find the Post as the mouthpiece of the party in this county in March last and as an elaborate partisan panegyrist on Governor Seymour formally assumed on the financial question, stigmatizing him as the candidate of the bondholders, the creditor of "the bankocracy of the East, and more New York than any place else." We give the Post credit for opposing Seymour then on principle. Mr. Seymour having made no other speech and in no manner qualified his utterances, support of him now seems hardly sensible. The Post is given to consistency. We put these things calmly to the Democratic organ, out of respect for its feelings, under the supposition doubtless in which it has become involved.

If not to suit the Post warmly commend his financial views to the support of Democratic voters, and preferring his election by a vote so nearly unanimous as ever a President was chosen. Now we find a pronouncing Democratic newspaper in Democratic, as last, the greatest need of his life," candidate of the straightforward Democracy, for election, and advocate of the principles of the Democratic platform of New York. No doubt the Post believes what we just as it believes Mr. Seymour's speech, we all know, we refer to the history of the Democratic candidate personally foreigners, or to the Democratic platform of New York. This was in March last. Now we find the Post in the following terms of the Herald. Mr. Seymour is not of the same mind. The Post says:

In the issue of March 19th We Seymour is again reviewed, a full report of his speech having been received. The editor is even less pleased with it than the synopsis of a few days before. We quote the Post of the date named, as follows:

In the issue of the Post of March 20th the subject is continued, the text of the article of that date being a quotation from the Herald, saying that "Governor Seymour's actions seem pre-ner me to the title question whether the public debt is payable in greenbacks." To this our contemporary responds as follows:

In the issue of the Post of March 21st we find the first reference to the resolutions of the party in this county in March last and an elaborate partisan panegyric on Governor Seymour formally assumed on the financial question, stigmatizing him as the candidate of the bondholders, the creditor of "the bankocracy of the East, and more New York than any place else." We give the Post credit for opposing Seymour then on principle. Mr. Seymour having made no other speech and in no manner qualified his utterances, support of him now seems hardly sensible. The Post is given to consistency. We put these things calmly to the Democratic organ, out of respect for its feelings, under the supposition doubtless in which it has become involved.

If not to suit the Post warmly commend his financial views to the support of Democratic voters, and preferring his election by a vote so nearly unanimous as ever a President was chosen. Now we find a pronouncing Democratic newspaper in Democratic, as last, the greatest need of his life," candidate of the straightforward Democracy, for election, and advocate of the principles of the Democratic platform of New York. No doubt the Post believes what we just as it believes Mr. Seymour's speech, we all know, we refer to the history of the Democratic candidate personally foreigners, or to the Democratic platform of New York. This was in March last. Now we find the Post in the following terms of the Herald. Mr. Seymour is not of the same mind. The Post says:

Here we find the Post as the mouthpiece of the party in this county in March last and an elaborate partisan panegyrist

Jas T. Brady & Co

Cor. Fourth and Wood Streets,

BANKERS,

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

Interest Allowed on Deposits.

FOR SALE.

Ira B. McVay & Co.

BANKERS,

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

Water Loan Extension Bonds,

FINANCE AND TRADE.

PETROLEUM AND COAL OIL TRADE.

Old Reliable Line Between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati.

Old Steamer Lucy Bee Sunk by U. S. R. R.

Old Steamer Lucy Bee Raised and Rebuilt.

Old Steamer Lucy Bee Again Ready for Business.

Old Steamer Lucy Bee Now Ready.

Old Steamer Lucy Bee Now Ready.

Old Steamer Lucy Bee Now Ready

The Daily Commercial.

CITY MATTERS.

Assessing and Collecting.

Rumbold Bells, to Bismarck & Hartz, Knickerbocker Building, No. 3 Fifth avenue.

Diamond Pencil, Engraved Case, Lost Yesterday.

Rare Bargains in Diamonds, Watches and Jewelry, at Wholesale Prices, at No. 84 Fifth avenue.

The Republican Committee of Twenty-Seven Ward, the Democratic demonstration at Duffy's Battery last evening was a large affair, and one of the greatest political meetings ever held in that place. There were several fine bands in attendance.

Tuesday next is the primary election for the Legislature, Wm. Beatty, Esq., member of the State Legislature, from Crawford county, has written to the city authorities declining to be considered for renomination, and requesting that a large number of the recently organized men in Ward be elected.

Steam Boat Excursion.—Mr. Dent, of Allegheny, yesterday received a letter stating that the steamer which had been chartered from Saturday to Monday next, the 7th inst., for the excursion of the Sabbath-school children of Lawrence county, on Beaver river, had been sold at Baltimore a few days ago, and that she will be laid up for the season. This will be sad intelligence to the children.

First Baptist Church, Forbes street, Near Grant street.—The pastor, Rev. Dr. Williams, will preach this morning at the usual hour. The public are cordially invited to attend. The new edifice is nearly completed, and will be opened for worship on the first Sabbath in October. The seats will be free. The dedication sermon will be preached by Rev. Dr. Williams, of Philadelphia.

Found.—A pocket book containing a small sum of money was found on the pavement in front of the Diamond Market yesterday afternoon. The owner of the same can receive it by calling at the Mayor's office, proving property, and paying for this notice. The finder will be rewarded for his honesty.

Broadway.—The Congregation of St. Peter's church gave their pastor a surprise on Thursday night, in the school house room of the church, and a most pleasant affair of the kind it was. Mr. D. C. Hunter, on the part of the congregation, presented Father Broadway with a purse containing a handsome sum of money.

Burglary.—A burglar took flight on Penn avenue yesterday and was not allowed time to accomplish something a longer to which he was inclined. The owner, on the street, of the "burglar" had left the door open, and the burglar entered. The owner coming out of the front window saw a man in the act of leaving the house by the back window, and gave the alarm. The burglar was captured by Officer Hamilton, and locked up in the Central Station.

The Race Between Wagner and Ten Eyck.—The race on the Youghiogheny river, which was to have come off on Thursday afternoon, was not heard, and this is brought on by the Committee of the Regatta, from Connellsville, which, since the regatta was postponed, would not allow the boats to remain there. The race will be rowed at Pittsburgh, on the 12th inst. The following is an extract from the letter:

It will give me great pleasure to open the race for you at Pittsburgh, on the 12th inst., and will be glad to hear from you soon. Please write me at once, and oblige, Yours, with esteem, &c., and, as I said before, I